ZS8W Marion Island -update May 7

The scheduled QRX period mentioned below has not yet come into effect. Meantime, Yuris has been busy on both CW and FT8. Regarding logs, or missing QSOs, wait until the next upload.

TX9A Austral Islands DXpedition – now QRT

TX9A is officially QRT! We decided to dismantle all antennas and prepare all baggage for the first leg to Papeete.

We would like to thank everyone who helped us make our wishes come true and activate Austral Islands.

Thanks to everyone who made QSOs with us; special thanks to ACOM for the borrowed power amplifiers that worked flawlessly for 12 days continuously 24/7.

We also thank all sponsors (GDXF, EUDXF, MDXC, as well as all individual donors). High power BPF from 403A Solutions helped us to have nointerference.

Finally, we would like to thank our families who are understanding of this beautiful hobby.

VP2VI British Virgin Islands -now QRT

All emails regarding busted callsigns, incomplete contacts etc. have been worked on. The log on Club Log can be considered as "final". We are looking forward to your Club Log OQRS requests. LoTW confirmations for those requests are worked on continuously. Bulk handling of the first 5000 paper QSL cards will take place late June / early July. Service will continue seamlessly until December 2025.

Wake Island KH7AL/KH9 -update May 5

May 5th marked the first day Richard (KR4CDI/KH9) made his first FT8 contact using our new Icom IC-7300 and WSJT-X software. Perhaps that was the first FT8 contact from Wake Island, not sure, either way it was fun to experiment with the rig and learn something along the way. As it was just a test we did not stay on the air long. I believe Richard logged a contact with a station in Japan and Brazil. Not to be left out, I also figured out how to get WSJT-X working on my Macbook and made 9 contacts. The word must have gotten out as the number of stations hailing me ramped up much faster than I could respond. Now I need to figure out the Fox/Hound mode of the FT8 program to handle multiple contacts more efficiently. More to come on that.

3Y0K Bouvet Island -update

The 3Y0K team met in Oslo, Norway for the first team development workshop and equipment shakedown today and will be there through the 4th of May. They are in great spirits and are having fun setting up some of the tents they will use for stations and quarters. The larger tents, as used during the 3Y0J adventure, are supplied by Arctiv Lavvo and the smaller ones for sleeping are provided by Barent's Outdoor.

Bouvetoya 3Y0K 2026 and Peter I 2027

The 3Y0K team met in Oslo, Norway for the first team development workshop and equipment shakedown today and will be there through the 4th of May. They are in great spirits and are having fun setting up some of the tents they will use for stations and quarters.

The larger tents, as used during the 3Y0J adventure, are supplied by Arctiv Lavvo and the smaller ones for sleeping are provided by Barent's Outdoor.

We'd like to especially thank the GDXF (German DX Foundation) for their very generous donation of 10,000 Euros - they are just one of the major sponsors for Bouvet '26.

Another supporter, DX-World, supplied the proper tool to open the shipping container, shown with Adrian, Cezar and John as they happily try it for the first time.

They also tried some of the MREs that will feed them on the island for lunch and then sat for a nice dinner after a productive day's work.

Antennas will be built and tested for proper tuning before being packaged for shipping. This saves a lot of time once they land with all antennas marked before packing along with the required tools needed to assemble them quickly as the stations are built at Cape Fie next February.

To learn more and make Your donation, please visit 3y0k.com and click that donate button - every contribution helps offset the tremendous cost for this great adventure.

Thanks for looking,

James, KB2FMH
